Dear Friends of YTA,

It feels like an understatement to call the Laver Cup event on YTA courts “special.” Having none other than Roger Federer, Yannick Noah, and San Francisco Mayor Daniel Lurie all play tennis with our kids was a once in a lifetime moment. That single day saw the biggest smiles, infectious enthusiasm, and longest lasting memories created for our kids, their families, and all in attendance.

Zooming out, 2025 was a year marked by a significant leadership transition, sustained momentum in our programs, and the shaping of a vision of what YTA could be. Through it all, our work remained centered where it always belongs: on the young people we serve.

Across the Bay Area, YTA served 776 young people and delivered more than 3,700 hours of tennis and educational programming. This year, our graduating high school seniors had been part of YTA for an average of six years — their most formative childhood years.

Behind the numbers, it is the stories of impact that keep us focused on running the highest quality programming we can. YTA serves the children of the florist on your corner, the janitor at your child’s school, the plumber you call, the teacher at your neighborhood daycare, and the referee at your weekend game. Those children play tennis and with newfound confidence start studying robotics, they get on a plane for the first time to compete on the other side of the country, and they make friends on the courts that stay with them their whole lives. The most common thing we hear our alumni say is: “I don’t know what I would’ve done without YTA.”

June marked a pivotal moment in YTA’s history. Our co-founder and longtime Executive Director, Mike Skinner, passed the baton to Mark Kushner. For more than fourteen years, Mike led YTA with two unwavering beliefs: that we should believe deeply in young people, and that keeping them at the center of everything is how we help them reach their potential. That conviction is the soul of this organization. We are grateful that Mike remains on our Board, and are excited for the passion, experience, and focus Mark brings to YTA’s next chapter.

Throughout 2025, we also listened to students, families, alumni, coaches, staff, donors, partners, and Board members as we shaped YTA’s next five-year strategic plan. As we look toward our 100th anniversary, our path forward is about improving, growing, and sustaining YTA’s impact — and through every step of that work, our focus will remain exactly where it has always been. That means continuing to use tennis, academics, mentorship, and life skills to help young people become well-rounded, high-character, joyful, community-oriented individuals who will one day create opportunities for others.

We are grateful for your support. The best of YTA is still ahead. Thank you.

With gratitude,

LAVENDER CUP

Comes to McLaren Park, Supports YTA Global Tennis Honors YTA as Community Legacy Partner

The global tennis spotlight turned to San Francisco last September: The Laver Cup battle of tennis elites from Europe vs the Rest of the World was in town—and for one luminous afternoon, that spotlight shined brightly on the young people mentored by Youth Tennis Advantage. Just before competition began, Laver Cup co-founder Roger Federer, Team Europe captain Yannick Noah, and Mayor Daniel Lurie joined YTA students and staff to celebrate the Laver Cup Community Legacy Project's significant support of YTA's programs and to inaugurate the renovated and resurfaced courts at McLaren Park—one of YTA's eight Bay Area sites.

San Francisco Mayor Daniel Lurie takes on Federer in a singles rally

The excitement was real

McLaren's six public courts—long plagued by cracked surfaces and poor drainage—were transformed to world-class through the Laver Cup's generous partnership with the USTA Foundation, Mercedes-Benz and San Francisco Recreation & Parks. Tony Godsick, chair of the Laver Cup, expressed pride in helping to create a "meaningful legacy that will benefit young players for years to come."

The afternoon was filled with fun and laughter, starting with a few rallies between Federer and Mayor Lurie. In doubles, Noah and Federer took on excited teams of awestruck YTA kids for a tennis experience they'll never forget. The highlight was a winning "tweener" by YTA's 17-year-old Devin that had Yannick dropping to his knees, Roger looking genuinely shocked, and the young man exuding the confidence and joy that YTA hopes every one of our students might feel, on the court and beyond.

DEVIN STUPPIN

YTA Student Spotlight

We honor Devin Stuppin as a “true YTA kid”: A determined and generous young man who’s fully “shown up” for YTA for nearly a decade. He models ever-improving tennis skills, infectious enthusiasm and an eagerness to help younger YTA students realize the YTA vision.

When he started, Devin was a fourth-grader with friends in YTA’s McLaren Park after-school program who raved about how much fun it was. Encouraged to join by his dad and site director Wing Yan So, Devin showed up—and never left! His first year at McLaren, Devin was coached by Hillary Phu—then a high-school “true YTA kid” and who, today, serves on the YTA board. The care and patience Hillary employed to guide the young Devin inspired him to do the same as he grew older and gained confidence to mentor those who followed.

A couple of years after joining YTA, Devin entered the USTA Foundation’s National Junior Tennis & Learning essay contest. Among hundreds of submissions by Boys 11-12, Devin was one of just 10 national winners! “Anything can happen if I work hard enough,” he wrote, “and dream big enough.”

An avid sportsman and gifted athlete, Devin pursued soccer and basketball, as well as tennis, with verve. But his tennis proved to be excellent (a UTR of 7 by 10th grade). The historic California Tennis Club offered him a coveted spot in their Junior High Performance program; he surged to a 10.5 UTR in just two years, putting Division I tennis in his sights. The Cal Club challenge “pushed me to get better,” said a grateful Devin.

Three times, Devin competed his way into the Impact Team Tennis Junior Nationals at Clemson University—his YTA co-ed doubles team finishing as high as third. And last year, Devin attended the College Pathway Activation workshop at the USTA National Campus in Orlando. YTA site director Wing Yan So was there at his side. Devin is preparing to play for St. Mary’s College of California, a respected Division I tennis program. Devin is thrilled he’ll be competing so close to home and to his YTA family.

By example and endeavor, Devin shines as one of YTA’s most inspiring ambassadors. Many times, he’s spoken in support of YTA’s mission in front of large audiences. He shows up; he speaks with confidence; he represents everything we hope YTA students will become.

When asked what advice he’d share with kids coming up, Devin said, “You just gotta keep showing up. For a long time,” he explained, “I really had no idea what the future was looking like. But it all kind of just worked out, eventually. You just keep showing up. It’ll be fine.”

Thank you, Devin, for always “showing up”!

CELEBRATING MIKE SKINNER

2025 marked an important milestone in Youth Tennis Advantage's history. After more than 14 years leading YTA as Executive Director, our co-founder Mike Skinner transitioned into a new role on our Board of Directors. In this next chapter, Mike will continue to shape YTA's future by focusing on strategic projects and fundraising, helping us grow our impact across the San Francisco Bay Area.

Mike's leadership has been nothing short of extraordinary. His generosity has helped define YTA's culture and values. He has led with humility, heart, and an unwavering belief in the potential of every young person we serve. In 2019, his contributions to the sport were recognized with his induction into the USTA NorCal Hall of Fame. He's often said, "It's all about the kids"—a mindset that continues to guide and inspire all of us.

San Francisco Mayor Lurie with YTA Executive Director Mark Kushner at the 2025 Laver Cup McLaren Park event

WELCOME MARK KUSHNER as YTA's next Executive Director

Mark brings decades of experience in education, nonprofit leadership, and community engagement. He has served as a teacher, nonprofit attorney, and founder of schools in San Francisco, Oakland, and Richmond. He's raised over $50 million in support of youth-focused initiatives and has dedicated his career to expanding opportunity for students from under-represented backgrounds.

Mark is also a former tennis coach and a lifelong believer in the power of sport to build confidence, community, and character—values at the heart of YTA's mission. Mark stands out for his passion, deep commitment to young people, and the genuine joy at the heart of his leadership.

We are confident that Mark is the right person to build on YTA's strong foundation and lead us into our next phase of growth.

Our Path to 100 YEARS

For more than fifty years, Youth Tennis Advantage has given under-resourced Bay Area kids a place where they belong, a community that believes in them, and a sport that builds discipline, focus, and resilience. As we look toward becoming a 100-year organization, our new five-year Strategic Plan charts how we'll deepen our impact and reach even more youth who need us.

Three initiatives will drive this work:

- The YTA100 Capital Campaign will fund the courts, facilities, and coaching pipeline that make consistent, high-quality programming possible for years to come — the foundation for YTA's long-term stability.
- The Full YTA Student Lifecycle builds a clear path for every student, from a child's first exposure to tennis, through our core after-school and summer programs, to competitive play, college guidance, and workforce pathways — and ultimately back to YTA as mentors, volunteers, and donors.
- Title I School Tennis brings introductory programming directly into low-income schools during the school day, often giving kids their first-ever contact with tennis. It's a natural on-ramp: students discover the sport, families learn about YTA, and motivated kids move into our free after-school and summer programs.

Guided by this plan, the next five years will unfold in three phases: Improve our foundation and student-athlete pathways, Grow access and programming across the Bay Area, and Sustain YTA's impact for the next fifty years through stronger reserves, partnerships, and alumni engagement.

From a child's first time picking up a racquet in a schoolyard to a college-bound senior on our courts, the goal is the same one Arthur Ashe inspired us to pursue more than 50 years ago: kids who leave YTA more confident, more resilient, and ready for whatever comes next.

You'll be hearing more about our Strategic Plan in the coming months. In the meantime, please reach out to:

Arthur Ashe Award of Excellence

Congratulations to Mike Skinner

Each year, Youth Tennis Advantage presents the Arthur Ashe Award of Excellence to an extraordinary member of our community who has made significant contributions to youth in the Bay Area. This year, we are proud to honor our own co-founder — a man whose vision, steadfastness, and heart helped make YTA what it is today.

More than fifty years ago, Mike Skinner sat down with Arthur Ashe and dared to imagine something remarkable: a free tennis program that could change the lives of kids in San Francisco's under-resourced neighborhoods.

That vision became Youth Tennis Advantage.

In the decades since, Mike has served as both President of the Board and as Executive Director, guiding YTA through its seasons of challenge and growth with quiet determination. After decades of dedicated service, Mike has retired — and with him he carries the gratitude of thousands of young people whose lives were forever shaped by what he helped build.

It is with profound gratitude and deep admiration that we honor Mike Skinner with the Arthur Ashe Award of Excellence.

YTA Volunteer of the Year

Congratulations to Philip Broussard

YTA is proud to recognize Philip (Phil) Broussard as our Volunteer of the Year for 2025. Phil is a dedicated parent of two daughters in the program whose behind-the-scenes efforts have made an immeasurable difference for our program and the young athletes we serve.

Phil has shown up time and again — on his own time, with his own equipment — to ensure our courts at McLaren Park are safe and playable. From unclogging drains and sweeping courts to pushing out standing water so our notoriously wet middle courts can dry, Phil handles the unglamorous but essential work that keeps our program running.

His contributions extend well beyond court maintenance. Phil has been a steadfast advocate for our organization, speaking on behalf of YTA to advance our mission in ways that have had a lasting impact. He was instrumental in securing a portable restroom facility for our program, and when our site at Hunters Point needed attention, Phil was there, ready to roll up his sleeves. He is, in every sense of the word, a pillar of this community. YTA is deeply grateful for his generosity, his dedication, and his heart.

Academics: YTA Beyond the Court

Free YTA academic programming gives under-resourced youth access to opportunities that make a real difference — in the classroom and in life.

From homework help to financial literacy, YTA's academic programs give kids the tools to succeed — in school and beyond.

The numbers don't lie: teens who don't have access to afterschool programs are nearly three times more likely to skip class. Regular participation builds self-confidence, better decision-making, and stronger social skills — and for kids from under-resourced communities, these programs can be the difference between falling behind and moving forward.

YTA's programs are free to all students — and that's only possible because of donors like you. Thank you for investing in the next generation.

- Homework Help: Parents and students love having homework support so when they return home, they have exercised, had fun, been given a snack, and done most or all of their homework.
- Life Skills: With both homegrown curriculum and new, cutting-edge online curriculum, students work on important social emotional learning and practical skills like time management and budgeting.
- Financial Literacy: In partnership with JPMorgan Chase, YTA students receive an age-appropriate introduction to financial literacy — real-world money skills that many kids their age don't always get the chance to learn.

We went straight to the source and asked our students what they've learned from YTA

At YTA, what happens on the court is only part of the story. Along with forehands and backhands, our students develop the social and emotional skills that last a lifetime — learning to manage their time, handle a tough loss, believe in themselves, meet the challenges of competition, and nurture lifelong friendships. They're mentored by coaches, volunteers, and older students, and in time, step into that role themselves, guiding the next generation of YTA players.

$450,000 of In-Kind Donations

Behind every serve, every homework session, and every scholarship is a community that supports our students. This year, generous donors contributed everything from tennis racquets and summer camp experiences to academic programming and facility support — in-kind contributions with an estimated value exceeding $450,000. We are deeply grateful for every partnership that makes YTA's mission possible and keeps our doors open to the youth who need it most.

The SOS hit a milestone this year, with local high-level tennis players stepping into the “pro” role for the first time — a shift from the college players who traditionally fill those spots. The result? A competitive, community-driven event that proved the local tennis community is all in for YTA's scholars.

The Big Hitters sold out once again, giving players an unforgettable day on the court alongside the celebrated Cal men's and women's tennis teams. This year brought a special bonus: local ATP pro Mackie McDonald didn't just make an appearance — he played, he stayed, and he made the day even more memorable.

Together these events are more than fundraisers. They're a reflection of everything that makes the YTA community special — the players, the volunteers, the supporters, and all the moving parts working together behind the scenes.
